A WOMAN ROASTED ALIVE.

SAD OCCURRENCE IN THIS COUNTY.

Mrs. Nellie Shepherd, Aged 73 Years, Burned to Death in Her Own Home. Skull, Heart and Foot Found Lying on the Hearth, Woman Had Probably Fallen—Lived Alone in a Cottage—The Charred Remains Buried With Appropriate Services.

The Brick Church correspondent of the Greensboro Patriot reports a most horrible occurrence in the southern section of this county a few days ago—the burning to death of a lonely widow, Mrs. Nellie Shepherd, who had reached the advanced age of 73 years, lived alone in a humble cottage, half a mile distant from the nearest neighbor. Not having been seen for two or three days, an investigation was made, resulting in the horrifying discovery that she had been burned to death in her own home.

The skull, the heart, a foot and a few bones were all that were left to indicate the remains of a human body. They were lying on the hearth and among the embers. A chair was sitting in front of the fireplace and near the skull lay a long-stemmed clay pipe.

It is believed that Mrs. Shepherd suffered an epileptic fit, or something of the kind, and fell into the fire. Foul play is not suspected. It is thought that the accident occurred two or three days before the discovery was made.

The charred remains were gathered up and interred in the burying ground at Mt. Hope German Reformed church. The funeral was conducted by Rev. G. A. Stauffer.

The deplorable occurrence has shocked the entire community.

Proceedings in Bankruptcy.

Mr. Eugene A. Glass, of Blackwell's, Caswell county, has been adjudged a bankrupt in the United States District Court at this place. The matter is referred to Mr. J. R. McRary, of Lexington, referee in bankruptcy for this district.

The liabilities of Mr. Glass are scheduled at $1,381.50 and his assets at $949.

COCKRAN SPEAKS FOR BRYAN.

Answers the Questions Put to Him by the Detroit Papers.

Detroit, Oct. 17.—For two hours and a quarter tonight Bourke Cockran, of New York, discussed "imperialism" before an enthusiastic audience of 5,000 persons in the Light Guard Armory. When the cheers that greeted Mr. Cockran's appearance had subsided he picked up copies of two of the Detroit papers and proceeded to answer questions asked him in their editorial columns.

The first one was whether he knew what Mr. Bryan will do with the finances of the country, in case he is elected. Mr. Cockran said that he had no right to answer the question except in so far as Mr. Bryan's character speaks for itself. He declared that Mr. Bryan will enforce any law found on the statute books, and he has no doubt that the present statute governing the currency of the country will be obeyed. "But," said Mr. Cockran, "if there is any doubt to the stability of the present statute, then the Republicans who enacted it, have betrayed those who voted for them."

The other question asked the speaker was whether Mr. Bryan, if elected, would select as his advisers what the paper called the "conservative element of the Democratic party." In answer to this Mr. Cockran said: "I do not know whom Mr. Bryan will consult, but I do know whom Mr. McKinley has consulted. I hope that Mr. Bryan will consult with the best men in his party. I know that Mr. McKinley has consulted with the worst in his party."

HIGH POINT GETS A SHAKE UP.

EXPLOSION OF A TANK OF BENZINE.

Woke up the Sleepers, but Nobody Was Hurt—Another Building and Loan Association—A Pocketbook Made of the Skin from a Negroes Arm—Politics Appears to be Dead in High Point—Not a Single Club There.

High Point, Oct. 18.—Last night about eight o'clock an explosion shook up our town. The noise at first was thought to have come from one of the factories and that a boiler explosion caused it. The trouble was at the Standard Oil Company's tanks, in the southeastern part of the town. A large tank which holds about 8,000 gallons of benzine, on a car directly opposite the tanks, exploded making a most horrible noise. Fortunately the benzine had been removed in the afternoon. It is not known what caused the explosion. Parties who were first on the scene report smoke and fire issuing from the hole in the top of the tank. As far as ascertained the damage is not much.

A third building and loan association is being gotten up here. These associations have proved to be one of the best investments for the laboring people of the town, especially.

Dr. J. M. McAnally, of this place, has in his possession a pocketbook made of the skin taken from the arm of a negro. Several months ago the Doctor assisted in amputating a negroes arm which had been crushed by a train. The negro consenting to give his amputated member away. Dr. McAnally had the skin on it tanned and sent on to Baltimore where the leather was made into pocketbooks. Three purses were made from the leather, two other friends falling in possession of them. The leather looks tough as the toughest and appears to be able to withstand many years of usage.

Gen. Julian S. Carr was here yesterday enroute to Randleman, where he spoke last night. Mr. Carr has a number of warm friends and supporters here, but Simmons appears to be the favorite among the majority.

Miss Nifong who died here Sunday was carried to Midway, in Dodson county, for interment. Rev. J. W. Goodman, Presbyterian pastor, conducted the services.

As yet no Bryan and Stevenson, McKinley and Roosevelt, Simmons, Carr or Waddell clubs have been organized here. What's the matter with High Point any way? But, then, we'll come to the front before election time.

MARK DEFINES A TRUST

And a Man Who Thinks the World is Flat Puts a Question to Him.

Aberdeen, S. D., Oct. 17.—Senator Hanna and his party attracted a big crowd here today. Mr. Hanna began to discuss the tariff.

"What about the trusts?" asked some one in the crowd.

"Well, my friend, if you will tell me what a trust is, I'll answer your question," said Mr. Hanna. No reply came.

"Well, if you don't know I will tell you," continued Mr. Hanna. "A trust under the law and what is known as a trust in commerce is where the stock is placed in the hands of a trustee, carrying with it the voting power. Every single organization of that kind that has ever had its existence in the United States has been wiped out through the action of the Sherman law, and that law was put upon the statute books of the United States by a Republican Congress."

Mr. Hanna then proceeded with his speech, but a moment later was again interrupted with a question regarding the Cleveland Ship Building Association.

"Say, Senator, that man thinks the world is flat; don't pay any attention to him," yelled a farmer.

"All right," said Mr. Hanna with a laugh, "but I would like to stay here all day and discuss this thing. But I want to tell you that the flattest of all flatness will be the Democratic party next month."

Maj. Guthrie to Speak Tonight.

Major Wm. A. Guthrie, Democratic Presidential elector for the Fifth Congressional district will speak on the issues of the campaign at the court house at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

POWERS ACCEPT FRANCE'S NOTE

NOW NEGOTIATIONS WILL BE BEGUN

A Hong Kong-Dispatch Received in Paris Says That a Great Movement is on Foot That Will Eventuate in Suppressing the Rebellion or Greatly Aid It—Ruffians Mistreating Christians—Trouble Growing Near Canton.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Paris, Oct. 18.—Russia, Austria, Germany and Great Britain, having already replied affirmatively to the De'cassee note, he is now notifying the powers of the acceptance of the first note and is asking all of them to instruct their Peking ministers to begin peace negotiations. Favorable replies are expected from all. M. Pinchon, the French minister to China has therefore been instructed to place himself in touch with the other ambassadors and the Chinese Embassy for the purpose of opening negotiations at the earliest moment.

A dispatch from Hong Kong dated yesterday says the rebels are concentrating in the districts surrounding Canton. An important movement is expected within a week, which will result either in smashing the rebellion or giving it more power. The Chinese authorities are in urgent need of reinforcements. The movement is directed against the government officers, but the Chinese and native Christians are feeling from the disturbed districts where they are being robbed and ill-treated by bands of ruffians.

WALDERSEE AT PEKIN

Received With Military Honors—The Chao-Ting-Fu Expedition Finds Fourteen Boxers' Heads, and Adds Some More to Them.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Pekin, Oct. 18.—The Pekin column of the Chao-Ting-Fu expedition arrived at a point six miles south of Chin-Chow yesterday without encountering any opposition. They found the heads of fourteen Boxers on the walls of Choo-Choon and killed seven imperial guards.

Count Von Waldersee has arrived here and was accompanied by an escort of international troops to the palace of the Empress Dowager.

DIES OF YELLOW FEVER

One Hour Later His Wife Kills Herself—Peterson Appointed to West Point from North Carolina.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Gorgas, the chief sanitary officer at Havana cables the surgeon general that Major Peterson, of the United States volunteers, died of yellow fever at Los Animas yesterday. His wife kill herself an hour later. Peterson was a graduate of West Point and was appointed from North Carolina.

Bound Over to Court.

In the Police Court yesterday afternoon William Claiborn, colored, was bound over to the Superior Court for shooting Hanna Setzer some days ago.

William Dorsett, colored, was fined $3.50 for being drunk and disorderly.

Rev. John E. White Called to Atlanta.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 17.—The congregation of the Second Baptist church, of this city, tonight, decided to call Rev. John E. White, secretary of the Baptist mission board of North Carolina, to fill the pulpit of that edifice.

A Baggage Transfer Line.

Mr. J. R. Donnell has inaugurated a baggage transfer line, putting it in operation today. His baggage wagons will meet all trains and deliver baggage to any part of the city or call for it at any hour. The enterprise will doubtless meet with the success it deserves.

Taters Better Than Poetry.

One brother wishes to pay his subscription in poetry, but if it is as agreeable to him we will take a couple of bushels of potatoes instead. We can handle the latter to better advantage.

Labor Unions Coming.

There seems to be an organized effort among the cotton mill owners in this State to fight organized labor. Considering the way the majority of cotton mills are conducted, we do not blame them for opposing organized labor, but labor unions are coming and the more opposition against them the faster they will multiply.

SMOKING OUT ON THE BALCONY.

QUIETLY ENJOYS THE FRESH AIR.

J. L. York the Federal Prisoner, Having Gotten up and Found his Fellow Prisoners Gone and the Front Door Open, Walked Out and Waits for the Jailor—That Functionary Somewhat Shocked at What he Sees.

J. L. York, a former resident of Greensboro, but now a prisoner in Cumberland county jail, has been heard from again. This news has a shade of romance, and York is, in a way, a hero.

On last Tuesday night, three prisoners broke jail in which York is confined. From the Fayetteville Observer's account of the delivery, we take the following:

About four o'clock this morning Deputy Sheriff Skipper, who lives on the first floor of the jail, was awakened by some one calling him, and going on the outside he was astonished to find Mr. J. L. York, the Federal prisoner charged with fraudulent use of the mails, standing on the front balcony as free as a bird and calmly smoking a cigar. In a few words he explained to the amazed jailor that three prisoners had made their escape, and that he and several more were keeping open house. The deputy hurried up to the second floor and there he found the prisoners who sleep in the hospital ward in the greatest excitement. This room faces on a balcony and the only thing which bars access to the balcony is an iron door secured by two padlocks. This door the deputy found open and the padlocks lying on the floor uninjured.

In this room at the time of the escape were: J. L. York, Thomas Fort, (white) and Malcolm McNeill, Luke Revels, James Council, John Freeman and Charles Butler (colored), all Federal prisoners except Fort.

Mr. York says that he woke up about 4 o'clock and at once saw that something was wrong. He got up and found that the cots occupied by Fort, McNeill and Revels were vacant, and, on further investigation he found the iron door leading onto the balcony open. The other occupants of the room were fast asleep and none of them knew anything of the escape. York then walked out on the balcony and he says that for a few moments, as he breathed the fresh morning air, he was sorely tempted to fly and be free once more, but his better judgment prevailed, and he gave the alarm which meant the loss of his own temporary freedom.

DYNAMITE APPLIED TO TREES.

An Attempt to Destroy Mr. Callum's Shade Trees Made Last Night.

A dangerous piece of devilry was committed in front of Mr. W. L. Callum's, on Church street, last night. An attempt was made to dynamite two trees standing in the sidewalk just in front of Mr. Callum's house, one of the trees being completely destroyed. Through the failure of a dynamite cap to explode the other escaped.

The explosion which occurred about 1 o'clock this morning, made a very loud noise and awakened everybody in the neighborhood, and some in other parts of the city.

The person or persons who attempted the work of destruction went to a good deal of trouble to carry out their purpose. Holes were bored in the trunks of the trees and a dynamite cartridge placed in each of them.

The trees were in the way of the improvements being made on Church street, but Mr. Callum had refused to allow them to be removed.

MR. GARRETT MARRIED

Went to Alamance Today Where the Ceremony Occurred Without Notifying His Friends.

Mr. H. A. Garrett, of this city, quietly betook himself to Alamance county today and was married to Miss Genera McCulloch, of that county. Mr. Garrett is known here, having been connected with the Odell Hardware Co. for several years, and has a number of warm friends who offer their congratulations.

Miss McCulloch is a charming daughter of Rev. T. F. McCulloch, of the Methodist Protestant church, and who, for several years resided in Greensboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrett will make their residence in Greensboro.

PREPARING TO RESUME WORK

MOST LIKELY TO BEGIN MONDAY

The Formal Ending of the Strike Awaits the Action of the Remaining Operators and President Mitchell Says They Must All Give in Before a Man Goes to Work—Limited Force of Hands at Work Making Ready.

By Wire to The Telegram

Philadelphia, Oct. 18.—The formal calling off of the coal strike now awaits only the action of the remaining operators following that of the mine owners in conference here yesterday. President Mitchell has telegraphed that not a man will return to work until every operator has given in.

Offices of the Philadelphia and Reading posted notices in all the collieries between Shamokin and Pittsville early this morning announcing that the terms of the Scranton convention had been accepted. A limited force of the company hands in each mine are busy preparing to have the breaker machinery in good order by the time president Mitchell issues the order for the miners to return to work.

Notices have not yet been issued by any mining company at Wilkesbarre in accordance with the decision of the operators at the meeting in Philadelphia yesterday, but they are expected at any time. Work will probably be resumed Monday by most of the collieries.

GEN. CARR HELPING CRAWFORD.

Has Had Sent 5,000 Copies of the New York Journal to His District.

Winston Sentinel.

Gen. Julian S. Carr, of Durham, desiring to aid in the election of W. J. Bryan for president and Hon. W. T. Crawford for Congress, has generously notified Hon. J. D. Murphy, chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee of the Ninth district, to send a list of names and postoffices, and he will immediately send 5000 copies of the Weekly New York Journal to all points of this district.

This practical demonstration of Gen. Carr's interest in Democracy will win the gratitude of all Democrats. The offer was contained in the following letter:

"I am very anxious that the North Carolina electoral vote should be cast for W. J. Bryan for president, and that we send nine representatives to congress in full sympathy with him.

"I am deeply desirous for the success of Hon. W. T. Crawford. He is a splendid type of the Bryan Democrat, and has proven himself to be a wise and capable congressman. The unseating of him by the Republicans was a most outrageous act, and every Democrat naturally feels a great desire to see this wrong righted.

"It has occurred to me that it might do some good if 5,000 copies of the New York Journal were sent out all over his district from now until election day. If you think this wise, send list of names and postoffices at once to the New York Journal, and I will see that the same are sent at once.

"Congratulating you on the efficient work you are doing, and expecting success to crown your labors. I am yours, very truly. J. S. CARR."

Man With Woman's Hat on Shot.

Denver Dispatch, 14th.

A shot fired today at a stuffed bird which the hunter supposed to be alive, instantly killed Arthur W. Green, of Denver. The bird was on a woman's hat which Green was wearing while out with his sweetheart, Miss Katie Mockbridge, for a day in the foothills near Golden.

Green and Miss Mockbridge started early this morning for Golden. They took a kodak and were taking pictures of each other with interesting bits of scenery for background. Green put on his sweetheart's hat, took a position in a bunch of shrubbery and posed for a snap shot. The girl was standing a few steps away with the camera and was just pressing the lever to catch the laughing face before her when the shot was fired. The ball entered Green's temple and he fell to the ground dead.

C. W. Johnson, who was hunting for rabbits, fired the shot.

THEOPHILUS GETS HIS SALARY.

SUPREME COURT ISSUED MANDAMUS.

Mr. White Modestly Asked for the Salary of All the Seven Deposed Commissioners But Didn't Get It—Col. Cunningham in a Richmond Hospital—Democrats in Johnston Doing Some Sharp Talking—Gov. Russell to Open the Fair.

Special Correspondence of The Telegram.

Raleigh, N. C., October 18.—Yesterday and today Secretary Pearsall sent out the Democratic tickets, those to the remote districts going first. Two hundred thousand are sent to each Congressional district, and one and three-quarter millions also for the Presidential electors. By tomorrow night all the tickets will have been sent.

The last Legislature elected seven shell fish commissioners, to take the place of Theophilus White, the Populist, each to have $400 salary. White sued for the office, and the Supreme Court decided he could not be ousted during his term, in other words that office was property. White sued to get the salary of all seven of the commissioners. The court decided that he was entitled to the salary of one of them, that is $400. Then the auditor and treasurer declined to pay him the $400, holding that the law said there should be seven commissioners, and that it named them. Today the court issued a mandamus upon Auditor Ayer and Father Worth and this ended the matter. They paid up, and as the "immortal J. N." used to say, "relieved the pressure."

The State charters the Tryon Hosiery Company, of Lynn, Polk county, capital $50,000, L. N. Wilcox and others stockholders.

This afternoon Miss Daisy Douglas, daughter of W. C. Douglas, Esq., was married to Mr. William Hayes, cashier of the Bank of Carthage, the bride's brother, Rev. John J. Douglas, officiating.

The merchants of Raleigh will meet tomorrow evening to form a protective association, such as is common in other cities.

The Democrats are doing a lot of talking in Johnston county about the warrants for 51 Democrats which, as stated yesterday, were issued by U. S. Commissioner J. D. Parker there, charging the persons named with assaulting D. T. Massey last July. It is found that Little Claudy Bernard, the U. S. District Attorney, issued the warrants. When the Democrats in this district track things like this back to their source they generally find it to be Little Claudy. His experience will be that of the late lamented Always Excited Holton, that it is a line of effort which does not profit the G. O. P. or himself a little bit. Gov. Russell has in the purest Anglo-Saxon expressed his opinion of Holton. It would be interesting to know what he thinks of Bernard.

Col. John S. Cunningham has for more than a month been in a hospital in Richmond. He is now almost well again and will be here next week. Last Monday at the Jefferson Hotel in Richmond he gave a lunch in compliment to Josephus Daniels and P. M. Pearsall, who were on their return home from Chicago and Cincinnati.

Albemarle Presbytery, of which the Presbyterian church here is a member, is in session at Greenville.

Gov. Russell will open the State Fair next Monday. It is to be a capital fair in all respects. One of the features which will certainly interest sportsmen will be the amateur tournament at clay pigeons. It will be by the Peters' Cartridge Company, under the auspices of the fair. The prizes aggregate $250.

ITEMS OF NEWS.

After breakfasting with ex-Governor Stone yesterday, Mr. Bryan at 8:30 began his tour of New York State. He will reach Buffalo Saturday night, and will have passed through a majority of the counties in the State.

Col. Roosevelt made fourteen speeches in Ohio yesterday, and the reports say it was a day of triumph for him. At Clyde the employees of a granite and marble company presented the Governor with a bucket filled with sandwiches, pie, cake and coffee and bearing the legend, "Eight hours and a full dinner pail."

The enumeration of the twelfth census is completed and the enumerators are practically all paid. There were 53,000 enumerators and 297 supervisors. The cost of the enumeration will be about $4,200,000.

It is officially reported that there are 100 cases of yellow fever in Havana.

Next to the Consumer

is where we stand in the lumber business. At the kicking post, as it were, in regard to prices.

First comes the owner of the timber. He just woke up to the value of it and wants double last year's prices. Then the sawmill man. He has not been making a fortune and thinks now he should share a little in the general prosperity.

They say to us: "We must have so much for our trees and work." After a while it is "up to you." Don't kick. You don't suppose we have nerve enough to put up prices unless they had first been put up on us. No, indeed. But prices are NOT high. They have been too low and are just now getting reasonable. Your children will be glad to build at double the price it now costs you. It is a trite, but true saying, if you want to build, "Now is the time."

CRUEL INDIAN RITE.*Human Sacrifices Offered to the Goddess Bhadra Kali.*The British Government Will Stop This Barbarous Ceremony—How the Voluntary Victims Are Tortured and Mutilated.

Great indignation is being expressed in India and in London at the present moment over the fact that at a recent festival given in honor of the Goddess Bhadra Kali several human victims were allowed to offer themselves up as sacrifices by means too revolting for description. Being informed that the annual festival to the goddess was to be held at a place called Kollangodu, a correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial determined to attend and witness for himself the horrors of the exhibition that he had so often heard described by others.

Accordingly, the day that the ceremony was to come off found him at an early hour in his jinrickshaw en route for the temple of Kollangodu.

The road was already crowded with people whose destination was the same as his own, and but for the difference in their nationality and equipment it might have been the road to Epsom that he was traversing on a Derby day, judging by the mixed character of the crowd.

The sacrificial car, which had some remote resemblance to a gallows, was soon reached, and the first victim, a man about 40 years of age, who appeared to be possessed with an uncommon amount of brute courage, was still further prepared for the ordeal by having some potent drug administered to him by a native physician.

The car, which might be compared to a telegraph wire repairing truck with four wheels, was fitted with two upright posts 18 or 20 feet high and held together by stays and braces. On a stout piece of lumber placed at the top of the posts, into which a deep groove had been cut, rested a long piece of timber, nicely balanced, which could be moved up and down on either side with the motion of a see-saw. Ropes were affixed to the pole, as also to the car, so that the pole could be lowered or raised at either end and the truck drawn around the temple as soon as the victim was impaled. Near the smaller end of the pole, where the victim was to hang, a mat canopy was nailed on to the pole to protect him from the burning rays of the sun. The length of the pole and the arrangement of the car upon which it rested was sufficient to allow of the small end being elevated to a height of about 50 feet.

This smaller end was now lowered in readiness for the operation, and amid an increased beating of tom-toms, the screams of flutes and the cries of the people, constituting an unearthly din, the first victim was led forward to the priests who were awaiting him.

The devotee was made to lie down flat upon his stomach on the ground underneath the canopy, and ropes were passed under his arms and around his chest for the purpose of fastening him to the beam. The priests then seized hold of the fleshy part of the victim's back and rolled it up until the huge hooks could be pushed through the flesh. After four or five of these hooks had been pushed through the flesh a native sword and shield were handed to the sacrifice, with which he was supposed to go through a drill while the performance lasted.

These preparations being finished and the sacrifice securely fastened, the other end of the beam was pulled down and the man swung upward into the air like a murderer on a gibbet. Amid the acclamations of the crowd and the beating of the tom-toms the car was then dragged forward by the excited populace until it had thrice made a circle of the temple and passed as an appeasing sacrifice before the savage goddess installed before its portals.

A sample of the conversation we may expect when women shall vote: "That bleached blond is a Democrat, isn't she?" "Yes, dyed in the wool."

NO VAIN BOAST BY HANNA.

The great strike of the anthracite coal miners of Pennsylvania was ended yesterday by the compliance of the operators with the demands made by the strikers. The strike began on the 17th of September, and was based on numerous grievances of the miners, the principal one being, of course, that the wages were too small and the miners were not sharing in the general prosperity of the country. There were also the minor complaints that the miners were forced to buy their dynamite of the operators at an exorbitant price, were required to produce more than a ton to secure pay for a ton, and that the sliding scale in use was an injustice. As a compromise, some time ago, the operators offered an increase of ten per cent. in wages but for no definite length of time. The miners held out for more concessions, and yesterday, won in the agreement by the operators that the increase should extend at least till April 1st next, and that the other demands should be complied with.

Thus it appears that the settlement was a complete victory for the miners. We do not recall that any other great strike has ended anything like so favorably for the strikers. We believe that the cause of victory in this case is due to the opportune time at which the strike was planned and executed. Not only did it come at the season of the year in which the demand for coal is greatest, but what is more, it came at a period of the campaign when it was destruction to the Republican party's claim of friendship for the working man, and its argument of the full dinner pail. Had it come two years sooner or two years later, we have no doubt that the demands of the miners would yet be receiving scoffs instead of acquiescence. It was a thorn in the side of Republican spellbinders to be interrupted in a flighty discourse on the Republican beneficence to labor by a question of "how about the coal strike?" And the Republican managers well know the effect it was having. They also knew the disastrous results that any bloodshed would have. No doubt this is why there was as little of it in this strike of a month's duration.

Now, the question is, how did the Republican campaign management bring about the willingness of the coal operators to settle so favorably? That they know, we don't. We do know, though, that when Chairman Hanna was nagged about the strike a day or two ago, he cried out in evident irritation, "The strike will be settled tomorrow. Go ask John Mitchell who got that 10 per cent. increase for the miners."

And we believe that Chairman Hanna made no vain boast.

NOT IN IT.

We note that the negro issue is not cutting much figure in this campaign, just as we thought that it should not. In reading reports of speeches of leading Democrats as they go from point to point in the State, we do not recollect to have seen that a single speech has been pitched upon the race issue, and not a newspaper comes to our desk that is so running the campaign. All the discussions are of the great national question concerning which the country is on fire, and so far as we see, they would fit as well in New York or Nebraska as in North Carolina.

This is exactly as it should be and certainly is all that the papers taking this position asked that it should be. Yet, for seeking to bring about this, good men and loyal Democrats were called McKinleyites and sell outs. We repeat that it is as it should be. Our amendment is not at all jeopardized by it, the State is just as safe for Mr. Bryan, and there can be no question of the fact that there is better feeling among the people of the State and between the races. The white people are running things, the colored people know that they will continue to do so, and we are all living peaceably, and going about our daily tasks as citizens of a common, Christian, state should.

The Wilkesboro Chronicle resent with a degree of warmth the story published in the Winston papers some days ago, that an old gentleman from Wilkes became very much riled at the late term of the Federal court in this city, because his son was convicted of moonshining, and called District Attorney Holton out for the purpose of putting out his light. The Chronicle says:

The whole thing, so far as it being a man from Wilkes is concerned, is a lie out of the whole cloth. And we are informed by those present that no such thing occurred at any time or by anybody from any county. The Winston papers have been played off on by some of Holton's friends to try to create a false impression to cover up some of Holton's and Blackburn's rascality and devilment. Those papers should correct the falsehood.

They should, indeed, and apologize, too. We assure the Chronicle that no such thing occurred. Such portion of its constituency as was on hand at the Federal court, was exemplary in its behavior. Barring a few slips in the way of breaking our new anti-spitting ordinance and sitting on the curbing around the public building, Wilkes kept off the grass entirely satisfactorily. With the Chronicle, we resent the imputation that any old man from Wilkes or anywhere else could be cruel enough to shoot our altogether-meek District Attorney.

Our contemporary, the Concord Standard, writes a very significant truth, and one that should not be lost sight of, in saying that it is a "singular fact that all Confederate homes and pensions are looked upon as equipments for temporary purposes that diminish in the scope of usefulness and are expected to be a thing of the past within about two or three score years, but the pension roll for the Union soldiers does not diminish and no one predicts when it will ever diminish or cease," and it rightly adds that the difference is that one is an expression of a patriotic principle and the other is a political machine. That is just the size of it. The pension department of the United States has long been a political machine, and so long as it is worked as it has been, it will be hard for the assisted patriots to get much credit for patriotism down this way.

There are strikes and strikes. In the one just settled many of the miners supported themselves and families on less than one dollar a day. They asked for a ten per cent. increase. At the same time a strike was in operation by the engravers of Tiffany & Co., the world-celebrated jewelers of New York. These men had a grievance, but it appears that it was not on account of wages. They make from $90 to $100 a week, receiving the highest wages paid anywhere in the world.

The Methodist orphanage at Raleigh will be opened the fifteenth of next month. With all the magnificent work now being done in this State for the care of the fatherless ones, is it hardly possible to realize that only a short time ago in North Carolina honest men considered any talk of building an orphanage as worse than foolishness?

With the passing of William L. Wilson yesterday, died an example of the best type of citizenship of this country of citizen kings. He was in politics but was not a politician in the ordinary acceptance of that word. He had too much principle for that, and enough to have been a statesman. He was the "scholar in politics," but more, the honest citizen in politics. He could have been less the latter and died in office.

Maybe Mr. Hanna is trying to be as bright as Mr. Bryan at repartee.

Will it be possible to bury the hatchet when the fight is over?

TO OUR CUSTOMERS:

On and after October 15th, 1900, we, the undersigned, will do a strictly cash business. Our reasons are as follows:

2nd. Laundry, the world over, is a recognized cash business and justly so.
3rd. Our accounts are necessarily small, and it causes an endless amount of confusion and expense to collect, besides losses each year in bad bills.

4th. All of our current expenses, such as labor, fuel, gas and supplies are cash, hence the stand we take is forced upon us. While we very much regret, in most cases, to exact the spot cash, yet we must treat all alike, and we see no other way out of the difficulty. We trust our customers will lend us their aid by stating when to return laundry and by being prepared to pay for same when delivered. Our drivers will have positive instructions to return to the laundry all packages not paid for.

We have on sale at office (for cash) coupon books from $1 to $5 which can be left at convenient place at home, so that on delivery of bundle the amount of laundry bill can be torn out by the driver.

THE PALMER STOCK CO.

Mr. W. R. Palmer, the manager of "Palmer's New York Stock Co.," which makes their first appearance here at the Academy of Music next Monday evening, is a nephew of Mr. A. M. Palmer, who is probably the best known theatrical manager in the country today. It is the younger Mr. Palmer's intention that the high standard always maintained by his uncle in all his productions shall be the same in every company under his control and thus we may expect a company of excellence when they make their initial bow to a Greensboro audience.

The company is a large one and numbers many well known people in both the dramatic and vaudeville line. Two of the plays presented here have long been associated with the name of "Palmer" and we can therefore expect an excellent performance of them both. Those referred to are "The Two Orphans" and "A Celebrated Case." The comedy that is to be presented, "The Strange Adventures of Miss Brown," was a great London and New York success.

SIEGE OF MAFEKING.

Most Interesting Episode in the Boer-British War.

It Lasted 217 Days and Both Sides Are Said to Have Behaved Well—Col. Baden-Powell's Courage Rewarded at Last.

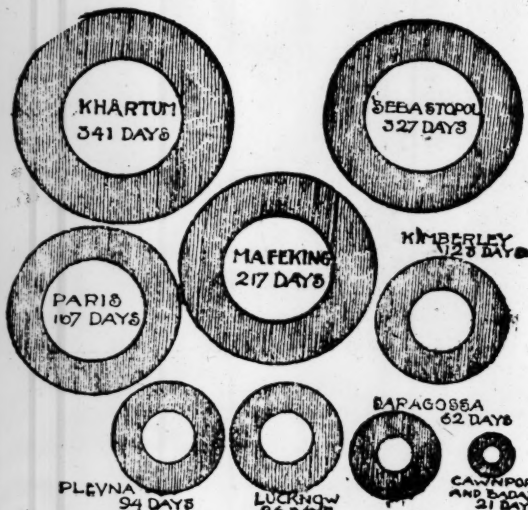

Mafeking's remarkable siege and defense lasted just 217 days. The town and its story will furnish one of the most interesting episodes of the history of the war. Gatacre's reverses, Buller's failures and Kimberley's famous mines did not divert attention from the gallant defense made by the handful of men at Mafeking under the command of Col. Baden-Powell.

The little half-British, half-Bechuana settlement in the north on the Transvaal border was in reality hardly worth the siege or the defense to either side. But it was attacked vigorously and defended valiantly.

On October 12, only two days after the arrival in England of the Boer ultimatum, the burghers crossed the Transvaal border 40 miles south of the town and cut off railway and telegraph communication. From that time the people in the place were compelled to subsist upon the stock of provisions in Mafeking at the beginning of the war. Baden-Powell's scouts and runners brought news to the outer world occasionally telling of attacks and repulses, of the sufferings of the besieged and of hunger and sickness, but always with the word that the heroic commander could still hold out.

Two days after the siege began the Boers opened an attack, thinking they could take the city at once. They met with a bewildering repulse, which Baden-Powell described in the following message: "Fight Monday. All right."

After this the burghers settled down to a bombardment which lasted

SIEGE OF MAFEKING.
(Diagram Shows Duration of Other Sieges Famous in History.)

almost up to the very day when the town was reached by the relieving forces. After a few weeks of shelling and waiting a Boer messenger with a white flag approached the British works and asked for a surrender. Baden-Powell was sleeping when the messenger arrived. He was awakened at once, and after giving the Boer an excellent luncheon he told him to return to Gen. Cronje.

"Tell Cronje," said the undaunted colonel, "that when we have had enough we will send out to him and let him know."

About this time Reuter's correspondent wrote: "Col. Baden-Powell is always smiling. When the people see him walking down the street whistling they take heart."

After the return of their man the Boers were inactive for several weeks. Then the colonel sent them this message:

"You can't take us by sitting down out there. Why don't you come in and get us?"

This started up the bombarding again. Week after week the shells shrieked over Mafeking. The convent was hit, the hotel hurt a little, and the famous dog was killed, but no British.

Early in the siege Baden-Powell's men made a few sorties and inflicted some damage with their bayonets. The children became so accustomed to shells that they watched for them to burst and then fought for possession of the fragments.

On December 26 Mafeking prepared a sortie and carried death up to the very trenches of the enemy. Capt. Vernon and Sanford were killed and Lords Edward Cecil and Charles Cavendish Bentinck were wounded.

On January 6 word came from Baden-Powell: "We are making up our minds to stick this out as long as need be, and have food for another three months." Col. Baden-Powell must have figured in his horses and mules as available food supply, for Mafeking had soon to begin dieting on that kind of fare.

Toward the end of February, says the Chicago Times-Herald, the people of Mafeking began to feel the pinch of hunger, and to realize what a siege really means. On February 19 it was reported that the garrison had been placed on the shortest possible rations. By this time the besieged were growing accustomed to horse meat, and that, too, in small quantities.

CRAZY WOMAN IN TROUSERS

KEPT OUT OF CHURCH TAKES STREET

When the Authorities Try to Take Her to Bellevue Hospital She Gives Them a Fine Race Over Flower Beds—Likes Boy's Attire Because Its Pretty and Comfortable.

New York Sun, 15th.

One of the ushers of Grace church who was standing near the door just before the morning service began yesterday saw a person whom at the first glance he took to be a youth about 16 years old approaching the door. The usher looked over the congregation to pick out the seat to which he would show the young man, and then turned around to welcome him. But at the second look he gasped, rubbed his eyes and stared in horror. The "youth" was plainly a woman in boy's clothing.

The woman's appearance was certainly startling. She was of medium height, but she weighed fully 160 pounds. She wore a black broadcloth sack coat, a pair of knickerbockers, black silk stockings and a black bicycle cap.

"You can't come here," said the usher sternly to the woman. "Go home and clothe yourself decently."

"You won't let me have any fun," pouted the woman.

"Go quick or I'll call a policeman," said the usher and the woman turned away. But half a block up Broadway she stopped and began making a speech in which she denounced the Grace church people for keeping her out. A small crowd gathered and the male portion began to make remarks about her appearance.

The woman went up to the corner of Tenth street after she had finished her diatribe and there began to make another speech. Encouraged by the applause of the crowd, that grew as she became more vehement, she declared she would next give them a song and dance that had been made for her alone. She was in the middle of this when Policeman Fanning of the Mercer street station appeared and put her under arrest. She went with him quietly to the Mercer street station, the crowd following and geying her.

At the station the woman said she was Louise Kuhn, 38 years old, of 618 East Sixteenth street. Her manner convinced the sergeant that she was insane and he called the patrol wagon and induced Policemen Fanning and McLaughlin to take her to Bellevue Hospital. The woman made no trouble. She climbed into the wagon on its arrival and on the way to the hospital laughed and joked with the policemen till they were convinced that they had a perfectly tractable prisoner. They learned their mistake as soon as the wagon got inside the Bellevue grounds and drew up before the reception room.

As the woman stepped out of the wagon, she evaded Fanning and ran, and she was a mighty good runner. She sped along the driveway until she reached the walk leading to the fountain. Twice around this she ran with both policemen in hot pursuit. They began to gain on her, and she turned and sped along the flower beds, in the loose earth, in which the heavy policemen sank in their efforts to catch her. Then she dashed back to the road again and made for the big double gates, which just at that moment were opened by Attendant Jones to admit an ambulance. Both policemen had lost their helmets by that time, and their faces were purple. They saw that Jones had his back to the woman, and fearing that she would be able to dash past him, raised a warning shout. Jones turned to see what was the matter just in the nick of time.

He did not see that the fugitive was a woman in boy's clothes, and thinking that a boy prisoner was escaping from the police he grabbed her none too gently. She fought back and in the struggle her cap fell off and her long blond hair fell over her shoulders. Jones was so surprised then that he relinquished his hold and the woman would have resumed her flight had not the policemen grabbed her. She was taken into the hospital and placed in the insane pavilion for observation.

Mrs. Louise Kuhn, the woman's mother, is blind and is 70 years old. She owns four tenement houses in East Sixteenth street. She said last night that her daughter had been insane for some time and that her father had also been insane before he died.

"She has been in a sanitarium before," said Mrs. Kuhn, "but as she did not appear to be dangerous I brought her home. About eight weeks ago she went to Avenue A and bought that boy's suit. She wore it about the house all the time because it was more comfortable and she looked prettier in it, she said. About four weeks ago she wanted me to give her $1,000 so that she could take a pleasure trip, but of course I refused to give it to her. Then she threatened to kill me and once she struck at me with a hammer and once with a big iron spoon. After that she was as gentle as ever again. When she declared this morning that she was going to Grace church dressed as a boy I tried to prevent her, but she cried and said that I was a kill-joy and she was going anyway. As she left the house I told some of the neighbors that they would never see her again because she was sure to be arrested."

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other ailments. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. For sale by Grissom & Fordham.

A MURDER MYSTERY.

The Chopped Up Remains of a Man Found in a Pond—Rivals the Great "Trunk Tragedy."

Lynn, Mass., Oct. 17.—That great "trunk tragedy" as it was known through all New England, way back in 1872, when the mutilated body of Jennie Clark was found wedged into a trunk which had been picked up in the Saugus River, was in some respects no more mysterious than the murder which was revealed today, by the finding of a man's body decapitated and deaude of the limbs, in a gunny sack in Genmore pond.

The police tonight are inclined to the belief that George E. Baily has been murdered, and have taken under arrest John C. Best, 25 years of age, a farm hand, employed on the estate of which the supposed victim of the murderer was care taker. The police, in searching the farm house where the man live, found in the barn cellar an axe which bore blood stains, but it is not certain they are of human blood, some stains in a window sill and on a piece of cardboard in a room of the house.

Baily disappeared on October 8. No one knew the reason, but there were persons who supposed that he had followed his wife to Wincastle, Maine, she having left the house, it is asserted, because of a disagreement. It is now claimed that the woman, known as Mrs. Baily, was not his wife, that although Baily was married his wife's whereabouts are unknown. The woman is said to be Miss Susie Young and she was the housekeeper. With these clues the police are trying to solve the mystery of the murder.

"Oh, I'm sick of men!" sighed the society girl. "I feel as though I never wanted to see a man again!"

"Then why don't you get married?" suggested the observing girl.—Philadelphia Press.

A NIGHT OF TERROR.

"Awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham of Machias, Me., when the doctors said she could not live till morning" writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night. "All thought that she must soon die from pneumonia, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, saying that it had more than once saved her life, and had cured her of consumption. After three doses she slept easily all night, and its further use completely cured her." This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all throat, head and lung diseases. Only 50c. ad $1.00. Trial bottle free at C. E. Holton's drug store.

The Jobsons Dine Out

"I SAW a perfectly lovely gas range to-day for $18," remarked Mrs. Jobson one evening last week. "Silk-lined, with passementerie trimmings and a V-yoke?" inquired Mr. Jobson, casting away his paper. "We'll need a gas range this summer, you know," said Mrs. Jobson, "and this one—"

"I'll bet it's not a marker to the automobile a fellow I know was showing me this afternoon," said Mr. Jobson. "Said he'd let me have it for only $3,600."

Mr. Jobson waited for Mrs. Jobson to make some reply to this sarcasm, but she seemed to be very busy with her Honiton lacework.

"By the way," said Mr. Jobson, seeing that Mrs. Jobson didn't feel like arguing, "what do we want with an $18 gas range?"

"Well, we've been needing one for a good many summers past," said Mrs. Jobson. "They're so convenient and so much cooler than coal ranges, and during the hot weather the house would be so much more endurable after dinner is—"

"Oh," interrupted Mr. Jobson, "I knew I had something to mention to you. There are not going to be any more dinners in this house after to-day until the 1st of October."

"No more dinners?" said Mrs. Jobson, with a puzzled look. "Mr. Jobson, I hope you are not going back to any of those vegetarian or non-eating schemes that you tried last year and made such a dismal fail—"

"Never you mind about the schemes that I tried last year, Mrs. Jobson—this is another year," said Mr. Jobson, severely. "It would be a mighty good scheme all around if you could eliminate that little habit you've got of casting up things that happened in the ictyosaurian period. When I say that there are going to be no more dinners served in this household after to-day until the 1st day of October I do not mean that we're not going to have any dinners. I suppose you'll at least do me the justice to admit that you've got enough to eat all these years, won't you?"

"But if there are to be no dinners here, how in the world—"

"This," said Mr. Jobson, with the air of a man who has got everything all arranged after long consideration, "is a matter that I've had in mind for a good many years, and now I'm going to put it into practice. Mrs. Jobson, it is barbarous and unnecessary for people living in these latitudes to cook and eat their dinners in their own houses during the torrid season. There's no sense in it. It is a wholly uncalled-for infliction upon the mistress of the establishment to demand of her that she stand over a cook and watch her when the mercury is hissing in the bulb, and it's not going to happen around here any more. We're going to take our dinners out until the 1st of October."

"Out?" inquired Mrs. Jobson. "Where?"

"At the restaurants," said Mr. Jobson. "You can meet me downtown every afternoon after office hours, and we can go to some restaurant of our mutual selection and get our dinner. Then we'll return to our cool house, and there'll be no dish washing and fooling around a stuffy kitchen or any other bother like that for you. It'll be a good thing in lots of ways, one of them being that we'll have a change of diet, which everybody needs once in awhile. We won't have to stick to any one restaurant, but we'll give 'em all a try, and it'll be sort o' piquant to have dinner around at different places and amid different scenes every day. It'll relieve the monotony tremendously, and the only thing I'm afraid of is that when we've been doing it until the 1st of October you'll be so enamored of the scheme that you'll feel like breaking up housekeeping and living the Bedouin life, from the eating point of view, altogether."

"But," said Mrs. Jobson, "don't you know how you have always disliked eating in restaurants, and how it annoys you to have to wait a little while for the waiter to serve you, and how—"

"No, Mrs. Jobson, I don't know anything of the sort," said Mr. Jobson, decisively. "You've got me mixed with somebody else. You just meet me at the office to-morrow at a little after four, and we'll go and have our first dinner under the new plan, and you'll thank me then for suggesting the scheme to you."

Mrs. Jobson did go to Mr. Jobson's office on schedule time on the following afternoon, but he had forgotten about the arrangement and gone home.

She waited for him to come back, and he did.

"The new plan escaped your memory, didn't it?" said Mrs. Jobson.

"I guess not," said Mr. Jobson, shortly. "I went home to get a clean handkerchief, that's all. And as I didn't find one and had to buy one, after all, in spite of the fact that I've bought some 2,000 handkerchiefs since the first of January, I suppose the cat has eaten 'em all up."

"There are at least two dozen in your drawer," said Mrs. Jobson.

"Are, hey?" said Mr. Jobson. "All I found in my drawer were three of your veils and a couple of pairs of your gloves and about 87 yards of that 15-cent lace you bought yesterday because the man who put it on his bargain counter needed the money. But never mind about that. Where are we going to eat? I'm ravenous."

"Oh, any place," said Mrs. Jobson.

"Oh, that's all the interest you have in the scheme, is it?" said Mr. Jobson.

"You don't care whether I'm faint from hunger or not, do you?"

"How about the—?" suggested Mrs. Jobson, naming one of the hotel restaurants.

"How about moving the Waldorf-Astoria down here?" said Mr. Jobson.

"I hope you haven't become possessed of the idea, Mrs. Jobson, that I'm going to pay about $12.85 a day for our dinners, have you? Because I'm not going to do any such thing. Come on, I know where we'll go. We'll go to—"

"They don't put on many lugs down there, but they give you enough to eat without assessing you a week's wages for it."

So they went to—A. It was very hot, and by the time they arrived there they were perspiring and uncomfortable. Mrs. Jobson particularly so in her new, tight-fitting foulard dress.

It was just after the departments had closed, and the restaurant was so filled that they had difficulty in getting seats at all, and the places they did finally secure were about 40 feet out of range of the electric fans. Mr. Jobson gave vent to numerous "Huhs!" over this, but he picked up the regular dinner bill of fare and beckoned a waiter. The waiter looked Mr. Jobson over carefully and went on about his business. When we passed that way again a few moments later Mr. Jobson snapped his fingers for him again, this time somewhat savagely. The waiter approached the table and inclined his ear.

"Thanks for letting me catch your eye, after sitting here for four solid hours," said Mr. Jobson, sarcastically, to the waiter. "D'ye think you could let us have a bite to eat, now, if we act real humble?"

"Yessuh," said the waiter. "Ah'll be back dis-uh-way shoteley, suh," and then the waiter went off. After about 12 minutes he again got within Mr. Jobson's finger-snapping range—Mr. Jobson was meantime growing things under his breath that caused the people at the other tables to look around at him—and once more the waiter approached the Jobsons' table.

"Look-a-here," said Mr. Jobson to the waiter, "do we get anything to eat here, or don't we?"

"Yessuh. Ah'se uh-waitin' fo' yo'all's ohduh, suh," said the waiter.

"Two regular dinners," said Mr. Jobson.

"De reg'luh dinnuh, suh," said the waiter, "is suhved at five o'clock, suh, an' hit's on'y uh quahduh t' five now, suh. Ef yo'all's wants tuh wait, suh, Ah'll tek yo' ohduh an'—"

"Madam," said Mr. Jobson to Mrs. Jobson, rising sternly and taking his hat, "we shall take our immediate departure from this place," and then he clomped out, Mrs. Jobson following him.

"Where are we going now?" said Mrs. Jobson, when they got outside.

"Where are we going, madam?" said Mr. Jobson, in a tone of suppressed fury. "Where else are we going but home? We are going home to get something to eat, that's where we are going, Mrs. Jobson. And the next time you wheedle me into giving my consent to any such idiotic scheme as this—the next time you succeed in bamboozling me into abandoning the comforts of a home that I have slaved and toiled for years to get together—the next time you put up a job like this on me, for the sake of getting out of the necessity of seeing that your husband's dinner is cooked and served for him under his own vine and fig tree—there's going to be a schism and a split in the Jobson family, Mrs. Jobson, and when it's all over I won't be the one wearing the sackcloth and ashes!"

Then the Jobsons went home and dined on canned salmon, sardines, Neufchatel cheese, crackers and tea.—Washington Star.

Contagious Blood Poison

There is no poison so highly contagious, so deceptive and so destructive. Don't be too sure you are cured because all external signs of the disease have disappeared, and the doctor says you are well. Many persons have been dosed with Mercury and Potash for months or years, and pronounced cured—to realize when too late that the disease was only covered up—driven from the surface to break out again, and to their sorrow and mortification find those nearest and dearest to them have been infected by this loathsome disease, for no other poison is so surely transmitted from parent to child as this. Often a bad case of Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula or severe skin disease, an old sore or ulcer developing in middle life, can be traced to blood poison contracted in early life, for it remains smoldering in the system forever, unless properly treated and driven out in the beginning. S. S. S. is the only antidote for this peculiar virus, the only remedy known that can overcome it and drive it out of the blood, and it does this so thoroughly and effectually that there is never a return of the disease to embarrass or humiliate you afterwards.

SSS cures Contagious Blood Poison in any and all stages; contains no mineral to break down your constitution; it is purely vegetable and the only blood purifier known that cleanses the blood and at the same time builds up the general health.

Our little book on contagious blood poison is the most complete and instructive ever issued; it not only tells all about this disease, but also how to cure yourself at home. It is free and should be in the hands of everyone seeking a cure. Send for it.
